Intercall 6000

simplicity, safety and reliability – protecting patients and staff alike

The modern nursing home or hospital needs to provide safety and security 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It needs a reliable communication system to alert staff to any problems or emergencies. It must provide the elderly or infirm with the confidence that even the slightest problem will receive prompt expert help.

The Intercall 600 system is currently the best-selling non-speech nursecall system in the UK, and the only one to be recommended by the National Care Home Association.

Its success is in its simplicity

The Intercall 600 system is easy to install with a simple two-wire system and can be fitted to existing wiring. It is designed to be completely user-friendly for both staff and patients alike. What's more, with five call levels, programmable text, call logging and the ability to incorporate up to 215 call points, the Intercall 600 system is one of the most comprehensive systems on the market.

Complete control

The Liquid Crystal Display units give clear textual indication of call priority, location and the identity of the caller, together with audible indication of the call type – giving the care manager total control over every situation that arises in the home or hospital.

Intercall 600 reliability for the carer: reassurance for the cared-for every nursing home and hospital has a strict duty of care – however large or small it is

The ill or infirm need to be able to call for help at any time, and the busy care manager needs a system which will immediately warn of any risk, danger or attack.

With its clear messaging and easily managed addressable call system, the Intercall 600 gives clear visual and audio warnings of every event. Built-in intelligence enables the system to prioritise emergency calls from standard messages and enables you to locate staff throughout the building.

Flexibility for every eventuality

It also provides complete flexibility of configuration with a wide range of trigger systems and accessories which, between them, cater for every level of disability. These can include breath switches, pressure mats, pear leads and water-resistant switches.

In addition, with CMS Lite Call Management software, you can store all Intercall activities on a standard personal computer.

It is this unique combination of flexibility, simplicity and efficiency, that makes the Intercall 600 the most popular nurse call system in the UK.
